

Castélane

Timothée Riom, 2025, published by Vers les étoiles

initial setup

On each turn, players may either move one piece to an adjacent empty segment, or attack.

Attacks

- The sword can attack any piece located one segment away. When the sword attacks, it moves one segment forward and replaces the defeated piece.
- The bow can attack any piece located two or more segments away in a straight line. The bow attacks from its current position (it does not move when attacking).
- The shield is invincible but cannot attack.

Goal. Be the first to reach the opponent's castle with two of your pieces, or defeat two enemy pieces.

- If the pieces end up in the same positions three times, the game is a draw.
- If both players reach the opponent's castle with two of their pieces in the same turn, the game is also a draw.
