The game is played on the following board:

Goal. Create the largest group of your pieces connected vertically and horizontally together.

The player who has the black pieces goes first. They pick any open space to place their piece. After the first turn the other player must pick another open space that is the same color of space that the first player picked.

From there each player alternates and must choose one of these two actions:

- Place - place a new piece of theirs in an open space based on the previous color that was landed on by the opponent.
- Move - move one of your pieces already on the board that is on the previous color that was landed on by the opponent. This movement can be any number of spaces in a straight line horizontally, vertically or diagonally if there is an open space to move to.

Gameplay continues until one player places all their pieces. Players count their biggest group. If there is a tie, then whoever placed all their pieces first is the winner.
