

Duotronic

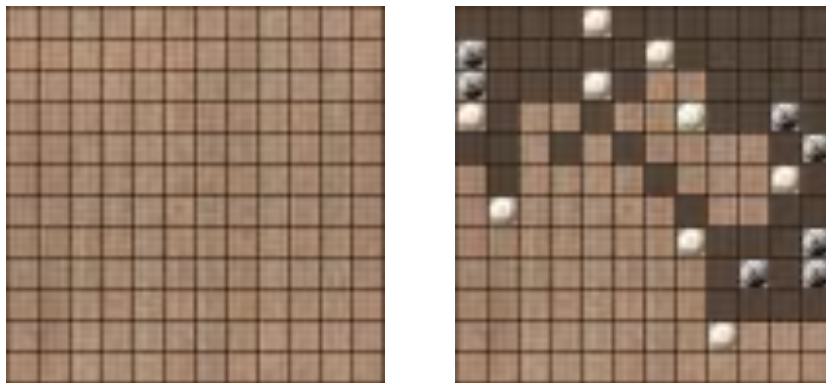

2011, Savarese Software Research Co.,

<https://boardgamegeek.com/boardgame/123744>

Duotronic is a two-player game where the player possessing the most pieces at the end of the game wins. You try to win by capturing your opponent's pieces and placing your pieces so that they cannot be captured.

Board

The standard Duotronic board size is 12x12,

Each player starts with no pieces on the board but has an unlimited supply of pieces to place on the board.

Rules

1. Black moves first.
2. A piece may be placed on any empty space.
3. If a piece is placed directly between two opposing pieces, the opposing pieces are removed from the board and replaced with obstructions. The opposing pieces may be adjacent to the placed piece either orthogonally or diagonally.
4. If a piece is placed so that it traps an opposing piece directly between itself and another friendly piece, the board edge, or an obstruction, then the opposing piece is removed from the board and replaced with an obstruction.
5. The game ends when no more moves are possible. The player with the most pieces remaining wins. If both players possess the same number of pieces, the result is a draw.