Dead Eye!

2026, Rey Alicea, https://boardgamegeek.com/boardgame/482102

Each player starts with six cowboys on their back row of an 8×8 board, with 28 bullets spread across the middle in a mirrored pattern so neither side starts ahead.

initial setup

On your turn you move one cowboy a single square in any direction, like a king in chess. If you step onto a bullet, you must fire it right away. Every shot travels exactly three squares in a straight line, in any of eight directions. It flies over other bullets but can't pass through cowboys or tombstones. If it lands on an enemy cowboy, he's out and a tombstone takes his place. If it lands on an empty square, the bullet drops there and can be picked up again. If there's no legal place for it to land, the gun misfires and the bullet is lost.

You win by gunning down four of your opponent's cowboys. If every bullet is used up first, the side with more cowboys standing wins. A tie goes to whoever made the last capture.
