

Inversé

2006, Niek Neuwahl, <https://boardgamegeek.com/boardgame/28306>

The game is played on a 12x12 board,

the board and the game material (there are two of each of the five block types)

Each player receives five playing pieces, each of a different color.

Players take turns placing one piece at a time on the board:

- Pieces must be placed within the grid.
- Once placed, a piece cannot be moved.
- Pieces of the same color cannot be placed in the same orientation (e.g., if one player places a red piece vertically, the other player must place their red piece horizontally or flat).
- Pieces of the same color or the same height: cannot touch face-to-face (corner contact is allowed)
- Pieces cannot be placed on top of each other.

Goal. The first player who cannot place a piece loses. If both players run out of moves simultaneously the game is a draw
